Many Sized Men.

"Size ain't everything—a cow's larger than a mouse, but she can't catch one."—Josh Billings.

The size that is everything is the size of a garment. We won't lose any trade this Fall by not having "your size." We've a stock in our new store large enough and varied enough and selected carefully enough to fit any one's form, fancy and purse. HORSE SHOW NOW the champion classes, but also in the local class, in which Squeedunk, with Spencer L. Carter up, took the blue ribbon with a clean score to his credit. Buckle, belonging to Lewis G. Young, was second, and Mrs. Frank W. Christian's Virginia C. third. Virginia C. jumped beautifully and probably would have been higher on the list but for mistake at the last jump, which she tipped. A. Cole Blanton displayed nerve in riding Wild Fire. The horse was excited and went at the timber like a hurricane. He came near losing his feet at the first, but made one or two splendid jumps later.
BUT A MEMORY

PONY CLASS.
The show opened yesterday with the ponies and the traps and little high-steppers caught the crowd, and they applauded them heartily. D'Artagnan, driven by little Miss Marie Newman, carried off the prize blue ribbon. Nellie, owned by S. D. Crenshaw, was second, and Miss Dorothy Christian's Ned third. Helen Gray, owned by W. G. Newman and bred by McComb Brothers, of Orange county, got first prize in the champion saddle class. The crowd was disappointed that Grey, who took the blue in the ladies' saddle class Wednesday night, was not in the contest.

When the champion class for horses was called, six stylish carts dashed out and there was as fine an exhibition as has yet been seen. The contest was a close one, and it was an inspiring sight as these prize winners trotted around the arena lifting their feet high, as if they spun to touch the bark. Mr. Haight, one of the judges, mounted the driver's seat over these fancy high-steppers and it was after quite a time that the award was made. David Harum, belonging to Wyeth and West, got the first prize, and Bright Fire, from the Hampton Stock Farm, second. Mr. Haight piled the lash heavily on each of these, but neither broke his gait. Ace of Spades, driven by A. St. John Boycott, was a favorite with the crowd, but lost on conformation.

The crowd yesterday was not so large as on Friday night, yet there was quite a good gathering of the subjects of His Majesty, the Horse, and they were agreed that the exhibition yesterday was as fine an exhibition as was ever seen here or anywhere that wheels have ever whirled over a tan bark arena.

EVENTS OF THE RING.

Matinee Performance at the Show Fall of Accidents—The Results.

The first entry of the matinee performance was the exhibition of ponies in harness, which proved an interesting event and delighted the old as well as the youngsters. The children carried the following entries, appearing more to the older people. There were nine entries on the programme, showing ponies large and small in sparkling harness and glistering spoked traps.

BROAD LITTLE OWNERS.
They were driven by their proud little possessors, both girls and boys. In the cart drawn by Nellie, the little well-mannered duns, exhibited by S. D. Crenshaw, rode the little boy, Crenshaw, with her little brother, Dabney, who sat in his little boots, acting the part of the obedient footman. He looked neither to the right nor the left, and scarcely winked his eye, so well schooled was he in his work.

D'Artagnan, the spotted pony with the manners of a big horse, acted the extreme knee action, so proud was he of his little mistress, Marie Newman, the daughter of Mr. Walter George Newman, his exhibitor. D'Artagnan, who has been and won the blue ribbon, which Marie Newman laughingly said it was being artistically arranged by the judge on her pony's bridle.

NELLIE WORE THE RED.
Ned, the little brown gelding, who gave pleasure it was to obey Miss Dorothy Christian, tucked at his bit and tried his best to outshow Nellie, the little mare which Mr. Haight Crenshaw and her footman over the soft tan bark, but he had to be content with the yellow streamer, while Nellie wore the red quite becomingly.

The other entries in the class were Mr. Crenshaw's, driven by the smart little boy, Miss Fannie Crenshaw; Julie, the ink pony, driven by Master Barton Haxall Grundy beside Miss Virginia Whitely; Captain Billy, exhibited by A. Cole Blanton, and Minnie, entered by W. B. Andrews.

SADDLE HORSES.
The champion class for saddle horses, open to all horses having taken a prize at this or any other exhibition, was awarded to Helen Gray, who took the blue ribbon, the white mare owned by Walter George Newman, was the favorite, and upon one such a class during the show, was awarded the championship trophy. Gray Dawn, exhibited by Morris and Brinton, came second. Oreganoid, ridden by C. H. Smith, was a favorite in the class. Fast Over's performance fell short in the figure-eight test, but in other respects he was a worthy candidate for the championship.

HORSES IN HARNESS.
The exhibition of the champion class of horses in harness was the most exciting competition of the show, and gave the judges plenty of trouble before they finally reached their decision. David Harum, the prize winner of the night before, driven by C. C. West, proved the first ribbon horse, and a worthy wearer. He was put to the test under the whip, and lashed as he was by Judge Haight, who took the seat and drove him several laps of the ring, he kept his gait, never breaking once.

Bright Fire, the chestnut stallion, owned by C. H. Smith, and driven by Allen Potts, was awarded the reserve ribbon. Lady Lyons was driven in this class by her owner, C. H. Smith, and by her high class performance she attracted the attention of the judges and won favor in the boxes.

BOYCOTT A FAVORITE.
A. St. John Boycott's Ace of Spades was no mean competitor, and was followed by a round of applause. With the audience Mr. Boycott has been, since his first entrance into the ring driving his four-in-hand on Wednesday night, a favorite, and by many has been pronounced the most expert whip to appear. Champion and Challenger, the splendid chestnuts, owned by Walter George Newman, were entered and closed well.

DEEP RUN CLUB EVENT.
Ever the battle call for the entrance of the first competitor in the hunters' and jumpers' class was sounded, the tramp of the restless hunters was heard on the plank flooring out side the gates, and all eyes were turned in that direction to catch a glimpse of the foremost favorite to enter the course. The entries in this class were owned by members of the Deep Run Hunt Club and regularly qualified with the Deep Run hounds, made the awaited exhibition one of deep interest to the local horsemen. A majority of the horses were well known and quickly recognized without reference to the programme as they entered.

As the gates were opened and the crowd surrounding the entrance parted, Buckle, ridden by Mr. H. C. Beattie, plunged with his steady rider into the ring and made a lunging dash for the first fence. He brushed lightly the first, but cleared his good form the other three. Spencer Carter, riding Martha Bolling, took the first three nicely, but blundered at the fourth. King, owned by Selgh, was ridden by Frank Christian. He showed his characteristic unwillingness to make the start, but made a fine score, striking lightly two out of the four.

Brunette came next, and was put over by Allen Potts. She took the first and third in great style, but carelessly tipped the others.

Fritz, ridden by Frank Christian, went at the jumps with some hesitancy, but cleared all.

SQUEEDUNK THE WINNER.
The cleanest performance of the class followed, being given by Squeedunk, ridden by Spencer Carter. He took the fences with ease, clearing them well.

Virginia C., ridden by Frank Christian, won the honors on the next, giving a beautiful performance over the four fences without a tibble. Titwillow refused the first, but on the second approach cleared, to blunder at the other.

King Carter made fearful mistakes, and Wild Fire, ridden by A. Cole Blanton, did little better.

Allen Potts, on Bachelor, put his black gelding over in good form. Buckle, Squeedunk and Virginia C. were recalled by the judges, and in the test made clean scores. The ribbons went to the three—Squeedunk, first; Buckle, second, and Virginia C., third.

HUNTERS AND JUMPERS.
The Champion Class, open to all horses having taken first prizes in the hunter and jumping class at this or any other show, proved the chapter of accidents. The prize was awarded for the best performance over eight successive jumps four feet six inches high.

Buck, the blue ribbon winner in this class was ridden by H. C. Beattie. He came with a lunge and plunged at each jump, cleared in superb form with the exception of the third, which he rapped lightly. Buck jumps with as much power and style as any horse shown in the ring, and was a favorite during the entire show.

Blackbird, ridden by C. C. West, gave her characteristic performance with a dash. West's riding was again commented upon, particularly the manner in which he seemed to almost lift his little mare over the bars. John P. Dulaney put Kathleen over.

HORNPIKE BITES THE DUST.
Charles H. Harkamp, riding the heavy-suspense horse, Hornpike, entered amid cheers and applause. The great roarer cleared well the first six fences, but blundered on the seventh, throwing his rider, as he dug his nose into the bed of the course, over his head. The great throng of people who a few moments before cheered his entrance, now held their breath, expecting to see the rider trampled and killed. The horse's hoofs caught his garments, burying them beneath his weight in the soft tan bark, but it would seem as by a miracle the helpless rider was unhurt. Quick as a flash he was on his feet, and the cheer that went up from the audience after the death-like silence of suspense was deafening. Mr. Harkamp remounted promptly and put the great hunter over the last jump without a touch.

AMARET ALSO FALLS.
The next horse on the list was Amaret, the great high-jumping hunter, whose performance over a six-foot one-inch and a half jump the night before was the feature of the programme. He was ridden by his owner, Mr. Harkamp, and as horse and rider came into the ring, as much for rider as for the great favorite, he mounted and a wild cheer broke forth. He took the first fence superbly and the tension on the nervous system was in a measure relaxed, but as he approached the second there was a hush, a hush of the sort that followed, and horse and rider fell in a heap. Women screamed and the scene in the boxes was almost hysterical. It was evident this time that the rider had not escaped unhurt, and breathlessly the great audience waited to see what had been the result. It was evident that his head had been caught beneath the pomel of the saddle, and it seemed as though his leg and arm were also beneath the horse. Attendants and judges ran to his assistance, and again he was quickly on his feet.

Despite the head shaking of the judges, Mr. Harkamp mounted again. Amaret was excited, but being put at the fences again, took all with one exception, clearly. When this one was struck, the suppressed excitement was so great, that ladies in the audience screamed, though their faces were turned away or buried in their hands.

LADIES AFRAID TO LOOK.
Mr. Harkamp, entered again, this time riding Kinloch. Few ladies saw this exhibition, as they refused to look, saying he would be killed. Kinloch's performance was clean, and as the last jump was cleared, again the nervous rider was cheered. In this class the first prize was awarded to Buck, ridden by H. C. Beattie, and the second to Blackbird, put over by C. C. West.

HUNT CLUB.
The Castle Hill Hunt Club, consisting of Allen Potts, M. F. H., on Brunette, Courtland H. Smith on Bachelor and Spencer L. Carter on Martha Bolling, got second in the competition for the cup given by the Deep Run Hunt Club for the best hunt club team of three members, he conditions required the members to ride in their club colors, the hunters to be shown over three jumps. Appointments to count 30 per cent, conformation and quality to count 30 per cent, and performance to count 40 per cent. The Warrenton Hunt Club, whose team won the cup by one point, consisted of Jas. K. Maddux, M. F. H., riding the champion Searchlight, Mrs. Jas. K. Maddux on the prize winner Grey Cap and Mr. P. A. B. Portland on Morea. The performance of the Castle Hill and Warrenton teams was about perfect.

HAMPTON CLUB.
The Hampton Hunt Club entered two teams. Charles H. Harkamp on Amaret, Allen Potts on Craven and Courtland Smith on Up-to-Date.

The other teams were composed of Courtland Smith on Horrope, C. H. Harkamp on Tip Top, Allen Potts on Charles O'Malley.

The exhibition of jumping given by the horses entered in this competition was more nearly perfect than any during the entire show. In showing all teams over the fences, there were only two strikes.

The handsome silver cup presented Mrs. Maddux yesterday evening as the trophy won by the Warrenton Hunt Club, was the second she has received during the show.

SOCIETY WAS THERE.

Many Fashionable People Were at the Horse Show.

The last exhibition given did not allow Dame Fashion to appear in all her glory on account of the glare of sunshine, though many elegant street and reception gowns were noticed. Around the arena and in the galleries street costumes and shirtwaists held their sway. In many of the boxes a number of children were seen with their little beaming faces as happy as kings and queens.

One of the cutest costumes that ever was seen at a horse show was that of little Dabney Crenshaw, who acted tiger for his sister, Whitfield, in the first act. He was dressed in black coat, tan trousers and high silk hat. A white stock, high boots and kid gloves completed his get up. All the time he sat perfectly calm, with a hand on each knee. Silk slippers, which had been put on all the week, came out in full force and one of the prettiest ever seen was in box 24. It was of the beautiful shade of blended tan and brown, having a running design in faintest blue. An elegant pair of white black velvet running through it, brought to the front in a large rosette. A large Tuscan straw hat almost entirely enveloped with white plumes completed this charming costume.

Mrs. Dabney Crenshaw, who wore a gown of yellow silk embroidered all over with the exception of the sleeves and front, which were left to give color. A black to go with a wreath of pale roses completed this beautiful reception gown.

In the same box was noticed a white tulle silk waist over a white cloth skirt. A white Parisian hat added to this charming afternoon toilet.

Not a few light coats were seen, and the red coats of the riders made the people think that they were at the Derby Races sure enough.

Horses Leave Richmond.

Most of the horses that were exhibited at the show in Richmond were shipped away last night. Several of them were sent to Leesburg, Va., and some of them to Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. James K. Maddux will leave to-day for their home in Warrenton. They will not show their horses again this season, but will hunt them later.

Mr. Walter George Newman's horse, which he shipped this afternoon direct to his place at Somerset. They will remain there a week before being taken to Atlanta to be shown in the great exhibition beginning there the week following.

Mr. Courtland H. Smith's thoroughbreds will also leave this afternoon. They will go direct to the Hampton Stock Farm and there go into winter quarters. He will not go to Atlanta.

HORSE SHOW EVERY YEAR.

Statements from President Anderson and Secretary Page.

The Horse Show has proven a success socially, artistically and financially.

It will be repeated next year and annually, perhaps, for many years. Those who held the nerve, the energy and the pluck to launch the enterprise met with many set-backs when they first started out. The night the matter was first brought to the attention of the Carnival Board the average director did not think much of the scheme. But the Horse Show grew in favor the more it was talked about. It has proven to be the feature of Carnival week.

While the number of persons who attended on the five occasions cannot be accurately stated, the aggregate number was very close to 25,000. The largest attendance was on Friday night, when about 6,000 people were present. There were very close to 5,000 on Thursday night. The audiences on Tuesday and Wednesday nights were of about the same number—3,500. There were probably 1,000 at the matinee performance yesterday afternoon.

President J. T. Anderson, of the Richmond Horse Show Association, said: "We are very much pleased with the results. They have surpassed our expectations. The association is now on a raising level, and the shows will be given annually and on a larger scale. I cannot go into details, for they have not been discussed. But rest assured that the Horse Show has become a fixed institution here. We have worked hard to make it a success, and the public seems to have been pleased. I am sure it will be in every way rewarded."

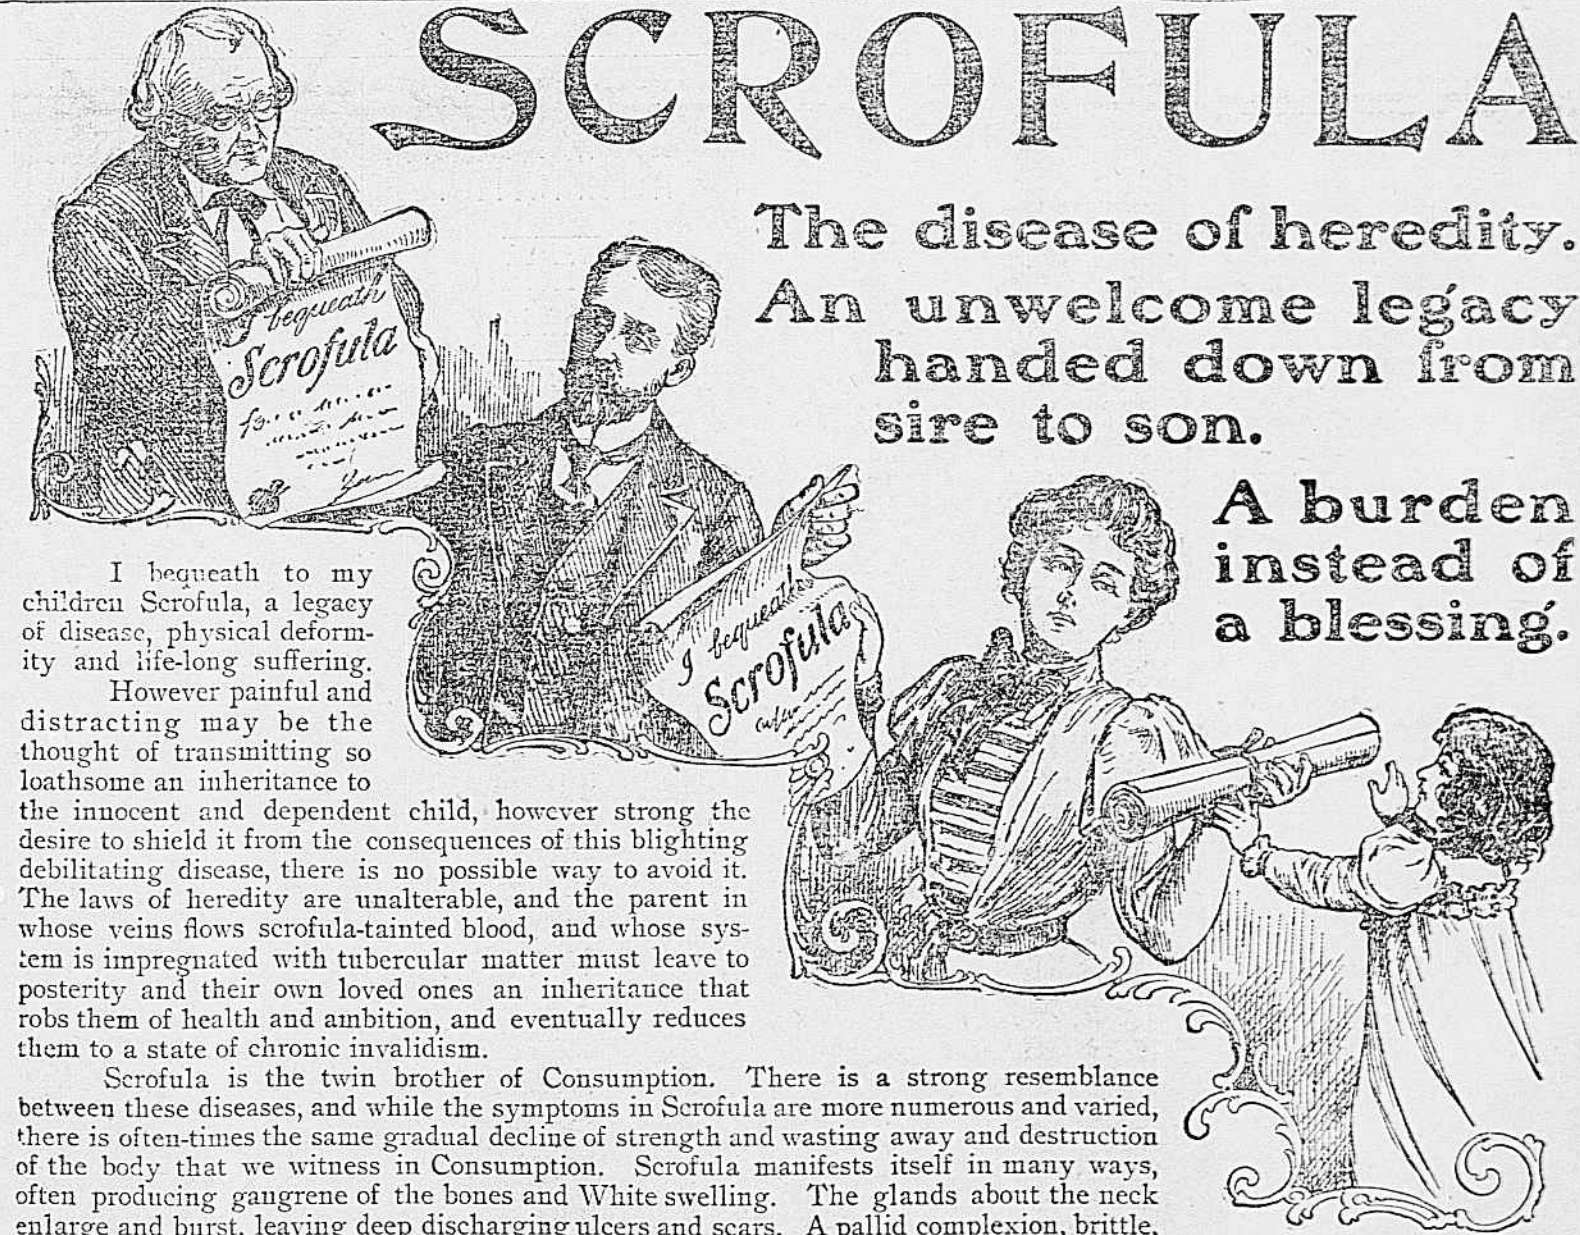

Secretary Leigh R. Page, Jr., said there was no question about the show being repeated next year. He, like all the others who have given of their time and means, is highly pleased.

There will be a meeting of the stockholders very soon, when plans for the (Continued on Third Page.)

SCROFULA

The disease of heredity.
An unwelcome legacy handed down from sire to son.

A burden instead of a blessing.

I bequeath to my children Scrofula, a legacy of disease, physical deformity and life-long suffering.

However painful and distracting may be the thought of transmitting so loathsome an inheritance to the innocent and dependent child, however strong the desire to shield it from the consequences of this blighting debilitating disease, there is no possible way to avoid it. The laws of heredity are unalterable, and the parent in whose veins flows scrofula-tainted blood, and whose system is impregnated with tubercular matter must leave to posterity and their own loved ones an inheritance that robs them of health and ambition, and eventually reduces them to a state of chronic invalidism.

Scrofula is the twin brother of Consumption. There is a strong resemblance between these diseases, and while the symptoms in Scrofula are more numerous and varied, there is often-times the same gradual decline of strength and wasting away and destruction of the body that we witness in Consumption. Scrofula manifests itself in many ways, often producing gangrene of the bones and White swelling. The glands about the neck enlarge and burst, leaving deep discharging ulcers and scars. A pallid complexion, brittle, chalky bones, soft and flabby muscles, weak eyes, chronic catarrh of the nose, violent headaches and weak digestion are common symptoms of this terrible disease. Stunted growth, inclination to mope and lack of interest in childish sports denote the presence of this destructive poison in the blood of the little sufferer. Again there may be no prominent or marked symptoms, the disease hiding itself, and lying in wait for a favorable time to spring out and destroy its unsuspecting victim, and childhood may be passed and middle life reached before the disease develops.

Scrofula is a constitutional disease and hereditary in almost every instance. It descends from father to son, from mother to child, and on down through generations, and nothing can stop its progress until the deteriorated blood has been restored to its normal state and all tubercular matter expelled from the circulation. S. S. S. because of its absolute vegetable purity, its freedom from all poisonous drugs, can be given with perfect safety in all stages and conditions of this disease. Its wonderful purifying and tonic properties make it pre-eminently the remedy in scrofulous affections, as it searches out and destroys the poisons that have been so long and so firmly embedded in the blood and system, and sends a supply of rich nutritious blood to every part of the body; and when the weak and colorless blood is again filled with healthy red corpuscles and regains its natural strength and hue, all symptoms disappear and a radical and permanent cure is the result. S. S. S. is a most invigorating tonic, improving the appetite and assisting in the digestion and assimilation of food. S. S. S. claims the distinction of being the only strictly vegetable blood purifier known, and no medicine ever placed upon the market has met with such unbounded success. No remedy has proven so efficacious, so reliable and safe in all blood and skin troubles.

S. S. S. has been for nearly fifty years, and is to-day, the most popular blood remedy. Its friends are legion, because of the thousands of cures it has effected, and it can be truthfully said of S. S. S. that it is as near infallible as any human remedy can be made.

Parents who suspect any taint of Scrofula, blood poison or other diseases that could affect their own blood should begin at once a course of S. S. S. and stamp out every vestige of the poison, thus insuring pure blood, health and happiness to their offspring. Write us about your case, and our physicians will cheerfully advise and help you in every possible way to regain your health, for which service no charge whatever will be made. Book containing interesting information about Scrofula and other blood diseases will be mailed free to all who desire it.
